WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate overrode President Ford's veto Wednesday of the railroad retirement bill, enacting into law the $7 billion federal subsidy legislation.

The vote marked the first time a veto by President Ford has been overturned.

The tally was 72 to 1. Sen. William Scott, R-Va., was the lone dissenter. A two-thirds majority was needed.

The bill is the first time Congress has overridden a veto in Ford's presidency.

The bill is designed to put on its feet the virtually bankrupt railroad retirement

Ford's unprecedented and voluntary act on his part, will be televised, starting at 10 a.m. EDT.

The hearing will center on charges raised by Reps. Bella Abzug, D-N.Y., and Charles Stenholm, D-Okla., Conyers, D-Mich., in formal resolutions directing the House to seek the impeachment of the executive branch.

Such questions are normally handled by the Judiciary Committee, but writing or by the appearance of Ford's first response to the House officials.

Studies appears to be the most popular, with an enrollment of 4,494, according to the analysis. The report also indicated that some college enrollment figures are steadily increasing while others are on the decline.

The report by Institutional Research, which includes figures back to 1969, shows that since that year, the enrollment in the colleges of Physical Education, Business and Fine Arts and Communications has steadily increased.

A breakdown according to geographic area indicates that 52.6 per cent of the student body is from the Mountain States region. The Pacific States contributed 27.3 per cent, with the remaining area within the United States comprising 15.3 per cent.

BYU to host archaeology symposium

New discoveries relating to Ezekiel's "stick of Joseph" prophecy and a motion picture made in Israel entitled "The Beit Lehi Cave" will highlight the day-long program at the 24th annual symposium on the Archaeology of the Scriptures.

Archaeology and scripture enthusiasts are finalizing plans for the conference on Oct. 26 in the Madsen Recital Hall, IFAC.

The symposium is presented jointly by the Society for Early Historic Archaeology and the Department of Anthropology and Archaeology of BYU. It has been held annually since 1949.

As Delbert Palmer, symposium chairman, said the program has been prepared by a variety of scholars in the fields of biblical and Book of Mormon archaeology.

Asst. Prof. Keith H. Meservy, BYU expert in comparative Semitics, will speak on "Archaeological Light on the 'Stick of Joseph' Prophecy in Ezekiel 37." He will present new evidence on the subject, accompanied by illustrations from his slide collection.

As a result of these discoveries, Ezekiel 37:5-20, long accepted by Latter-day Saints as an important sixteenth-century-B.C. prophecy of the appearance of the Book of Mormon, can now be more accurately translated.

A recent film on the tomb at Khirbet Beit Lei will also be viewed. Prophetic inscriptions judge and counsel his people. In addition to the address, the noon motion picture and discussion mentioned above, 11 other papers have been chosen for delivery at the Oct. 26 symposium.

M. Wells Jakeman, professor of archaeology and anthropology at BYU, will explore "The Underworld of the Ancient Mesoamericans. Still Another Near-Eastern Parallel." Dr. Jakeman offers evidence of a remarkable similarity of belief regarding the place of the dead in the afterlife as between these two ancient nuclei of civilization.

He will examine the Book of Mormon in light of what is known today about ancient Mesoamerican civilization and offer new interpretations about Nephtie society.

Also featured is Robert Chadwick, assistant professor of sociology and anthropology at East Texas State University. Dr. Chadwick will compare the evidence of "Ezekiel 27 and apparent Trans-Atlantic Expeditions around 500 B.C."

He will draw on data from archaeology and physical anthropology to support the thesis of transoceanic contact around that date.

Registration for the symposium will take place from 8 to 9 a.m., the morning of the event. No admission fee will be charged.

The Society for Early Historic Archaeology carries on a program of research and publication in the archaeology of the Hebrew-Christian and Latter-day Saint scriptures.

Its special endeavor is to present to its members information on discoveries in this field in a form that is both interesting and reliable.

Membership forms for the Society will be available at the symposium. Non-members are, however, invited.

Hospital learns big cost of Evel

Twin Falls, Idaho (AP) — The week of Evel Knievel's canyon jump may cost Magic Valley Memorial Hospital as much as $10,000, says John Hayden, hospital controller.

He said the costs were for extra staff, security guards, surgery, nursing personnel and technicians and for those who didn't pay their bills. Some 99 patients were treated in the hospital emergency room the weekend of the Sept. 8 jump, compared to an average of 59 persons per weekend.

Class form to register now ready

Advance registration forms for winter semester may be picked up now at College Advancement Centers. Distribution of the forms began Monday, Larry Taylor, coordinator of the College Advancement Centers said many students have already picked up their forms.

Completed class registration forms will be taken through the mail at the Registration Office and in person at the College Advancement Centers. Taylor encouraged students to submit their request early and to meet the Nov. 8 deadline in order to receive their schedule confirmation by mail.

The locations of the advancement centers are as follows: Biological and Agricultural Sciences, 392 WDB; Business, 49 JKB; Education, 131 MCKB; Engineering Science, 278 ESTB; Family Living, 206 SFLC; Fine Arts and Communications, D444 IFAC.

relieve the pain and crippling of the arthritis.

The infectious agent causes uveitis, an inflammation of deep tissue layers of the eye, "and we believe it also causes rheumatoid arthritis and some other diseases," said Dr. Emil Wirostko, an ophthalmologist.

When eye fluid, or aqueous, from patients with uveitis was injected into guinea pigs and mice, most of them died within a year. Further, a small but significant number had developed chronic arthritis, enlargement of the spleen and hepatitis.

The same thing happened to animals injected with fluid from the joints of people to rheumatoid arthritis, Dr. Wirostko told a New York Academy of Sciences meeting.

So it seems the same organism is involved in the joint and eye problems, he said.

Doctors have often observed the eye disease co-existing with joint or back problems, he continued. Some uveitis patients come down with back problems, and some with joint problems develop uveitis.

Old letter examines martyrdom

A letter written by a resident of La Harpe, Ill., gives a little-known contemporary account of the circumstances surrounding the deaths of the Mormon prophet Joseph Smith and his brother Hyrum.

This letter is reproduced in the Spring '74 issue of "BYU Studies: A Voice for the Community of LDS Scholars," a quarterly edited and printed at BYU.

Adding the perspective of a non-Mormon looking at the events leading to the martyrdom and its effect on the people, the letter was written to reassure H. H. Bliss's family in the East that the disturbances in Hancock County over the martyrdom were not dangerous.

Another article in the "Historians Corner" of the Spring BYU Studies traces the physical beginning of the LDS Church welfare program. Paul C. Childs, member of the Pioneer Stake Presidency with President Harold B. Lee when the pilot project began, recounts the development of the churchwide program from the stake pilot project.

Historians have also discovered the minutes of the Nauvoo Library and Literary Institute, which pose several questions about the intellectual climate of Nauvoo.

Irish women inmates rebel in protest

BELFAST — Women inmates held the warden of Armagh Prison and three other prison officials hostage Wednesday and disorders spread elsewhere in Northern Ireland to protest internment of suspected terrorists without trial.

Police said 100 women inmates seized Warden John Cunningham, a male guard and two woman officers and held them in an attic at the top of a cellblock at the Armagh Prison, 35 miles southwest of Belfast.

"They have not been harmed so far," one of the inmates shouted at security forces. "They are being held hostage until our demands are met."

Leftists challenge Argentine leader

BUENOS AIRES — Leftist guerrillas have stolen the remains of former President Pedro E. Aramburu in a bold new challenge to the government of President Isabel Peron, police said Wednesday.

At least 20 men entered the Recoleta Cemetery on Tuesday night, subdued two caretakers, forced open Aramburu's white marble tomb and carried the coffin through an iron door to a waiting hearse, cemetery officials said.

The body snatchers sprayed the word "Montoneros" on a nearby tomb, prompting police to blame the act on a leftist guerrilla group of that name.

Mills embarrassed over incident

LITTLE ROCK — Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., told reporters Wednesday that he was embarrassed about his encounter with Washington park police nine days ago and would talk about it more during his campaign for re-election.

It was the first public appearance by Mills, chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, since the Oct. 7 incident. He and his wife arrived here and were greeted at the airport by about 75 persons, mostly newsmen.

"I said I was embarrassed," Mills said when asked about the incident. "I'm still embarrassed."

New mortgage law to aid middle class

WASHINGTON (AP) — Homebuyers should find mortgage money easier to locate as a result of an emergency housing credit bill passed by Congress Tuesday.

The bill, which authorizes up to $7.7 billion for federal purchases of conventional housing mortgages, was a priority request of President Ford in his economic message to Congress a week ago.

Rep. Garry Brown, a ranking Republican on the Banking Committee, said he has been assured that Ford will sign the bill.

He said the mortgage purchases should begin soon afterward, freeing up banks and savings and loan institutions to underwrite more mortgages.

Seventy per cent of single-family homes have conventional mortgages but the government's secondary mortgage agencies have been restricted to purchase of home mortgages insured by the Veterans Administration and the Federal Housing Administration.

Middle-class homebuyers will benefit most from the legislation. It authorizes government agencies to buy up mortgages on houses costing between $35,000 and $38,000 but allows purchases of mortgages on houses costing up to $42,000 in high-cost areas.

Mne. Chiang hits U.N.

TAIPEI, Taiwan (AP) — Madame Chiang Kai-shek says Nationalist China left the United Nations because it believes "the U.N. has become a charnel house of dead principles."

In a statement issued Tuesday by the government information office, the First Lady of Nationalist China said the world forum is doomed because of the destruction of principles upon which it was founded.

Criticizing a U.N. decision prompted by the Peking representatives to remove from its headquarters a plaque quoting Confucius, Madame Chiang said the Chinese Communists cannot "erase history" and make her husband's government "disappear and vanish into nothingness."

Fun With Photography
By BOBBY ALLEN

BOO BOO No. 1

In preparing these columns to try to be of help to picture takers, I thought I might write about the largest single cause of picture failure.

At first I thought that the list would be headed by flash failure. But with the advent of Maginobes for the instant load cameras and better and better electronic flashes for 35 mm cameras I think the flash problem is under control. In looking at the pictures that didn't happen" that came through our store, I think the most common problem now is failure of film to transport properly in 35mm cameras, caused by faulty loading procedures.

Because 35mm cameras are about the most fun kind of still camera to have we think this is a sad situation and we would like to help. 35mm film is raw film sold in a light tight cartridge. It has no paper backing to use as a leader. Therefore, the first part of the film itself in a 35 mm roll is used as leader instead of being used to take pictures.

A goodly part of the trouble comes when a frugal photographer try to take pictures on the extra film the Eastman Kodak people provided to be used as leader. It is tempting to load 22 pictures when you only paid for 20 or 30 on 36 exposure roll. But if you don't advance the film until the full width is clear across the back of the camera so that the double perforations are engaged on the sprocket teeth of the camera, the film may not catch.

If the film does not catch, in most 35mm cameras there is no easy way to find it out until it is too late. The film counter works whether the film is going through or not. Pictures are priceless. It should be worth the extra effort to load the film correctly. If you are trying to save film by not advancing far enough before closing the camera back you lose a roll of pictures, you have lost as much film as if you had saved 2 exposures each on 10 rolls, plus the loss of 20 pictures! There are additional suggestions we can make to help insure against this type of failure. If you are planning a trip and your camera loading technique is a little rusty, come and see us before you leave. We are in the parking lot of the Back of Backs.

are part of the Creative Learning Applied Sociological Principles (CLASP) may feel effects from a wilderness parasite.

An outbreak of Giardia lamblia has occurred in a group of 52 CLASP students who returned Sept. 17 from camping in the Uintah National Forest. The State Health Department's newsletter for September reported that, "This is the largest outbreak of Giardia in this area."

"Students complain. 'It is commonly thought,' said Percy Hawkes, a graduate in zoology who has tested all of the students returning, that Giardiasis may be accompanied by many intestinal disorders. Seventy-five percent of the CLASP students completing a questionnaire have complained of upper abdominal pain, nausea, diarrhea, loose stools, bloating gas, fever, constipation, and noticeable loss of weight."

Giardia can be treated effectively; 80-90 per cent of the cases can be cured completely within seven days, he said.

The parasite is slightly contagious. In an article released by Hawkes and Jack Reed, a graduate of BYU with a master's degree in medical entomology, the following caution is offered: "The transmission of the organism to roommates, family members or others is possible and the effects on small children particularly may be severe."

Two-thirds affected. "Of the 54 students and instructors who went out with the sociology CLASP group on Sept. 5-17, 39 have been into the Missionary Parasite Study Lab, 143 Webb, twenty-two have been infected with Giardia lamblia, or a minimum of two out of every three students who were on the CLASP trip have been infected with Giardia," the article continued.

The parasite, which is only found in man, is difficult to isolate. In most cases the infection sources appear to be contaminated water, Hawkes said.

"Since the most common source of infection is contaminated water, survival techniques may not need to be so primitive as to preclude the use of commercial filters capable of removing these parasites from the water or boiling the water. Water purification tablets in most cases will not eliminate intestinal parasites," Reed said.

Disease caused. The State Health Department's Newsletter also said, "We wish to again stress that Giardia does cause disease, often of a chronic disabling nature with significant malabsorption. It is endemic in Utah. As a parasite, it is a reportable disease by state regulations."

The Health Department recently conducted a study of the CLASP students and took an unidentified student into the Uinta area to act as guide and show officials where students drank water. The Health Department took samples of the water as specimens with hopes of isolating the disease. Results of that study are not yet in, said Craig Nichols of the State Health Department.

Dr. Diara Fukushima of the state's Department of Communicable Diseases, said of the parasite, "Our chances of finding it are difficult; we know that man gets it from contaminated surfaces, but most of the people who have it don't know where they're getting it from."

The Health Department's report stated, "Preliminary evidence suggests beavers or sheep at high altitudes as possible vectors (carriers)."

Forced safety systems not required in '75 cars

WASHINGTON (AP) — Automakers have been authorized by Congress to stop equipping 1975 models with seat belt interlock systems and continuous buzzers which force motorists to buckle up before their cars will start.

A measure receiving final congressional approval in the House Tuesday also provided that manufacturers, distributors, dealers and auto repair shops could disconnect any seatbelt interlock and constant buzzer. The two features had been mandatory for 1975 models.

Instead, the bill stipulates that a brief warning buzzer be retained for when seat belts are not connected.

Another provision of the bill gives the Transportation Department authority to order installation of shock-absorbing air bags on new cars, but gives Congress power to disapprove any occupant-restraint proposal.

to hunt tough, agency reports

INGTON (AP) — Nearly one of every two persons looking for work during the past three months was to find a job, the Labor Department reported.

Quarterly report on employment trends, the department said that about half of the five million persons during the third quarter had been looking for jobs for more than five weeks. However one million had been for 15 or more weeks.

Unemployment rate, which rose to 5.8 per cent in September, averaged 5.5 per cent for the quarter. For the quarter, the department said employment grew, but at a relatively slow pace.

Important factor in the sluggish employment picture was the slump in the construction industry, the report said. "The prolonged decline in housing starts caused a decline in employment in this industry, and reverse job effects were also being felt by those which depend heavily on the homebuilding industry such as lumber, furniture and appliances."

Unemployment in the construction industry has climbed 1.9 per cent.

Unemployment rate among whites in poverty areas rose from about 5.5 per cent, while the rate for blacks increased at about 12 per cent.

A propeller plane pulls into Provo Municipal Airport. The airport is to soon begin improvements under a more than $300,000 grant from the FAA.

FAA awards $300,000 to renew Provo airport

By ROBERT S. MERRILL
Universe Staff Writer

Among the marshes on the eastern shore of Utah Lake, a seemingly unknown facility exists which benefits Provo City, BYU and Utah County—The Provo Municipal Airport.

Many BYU students aren't aware of the airport. Nevertheless, recently the Federal Aviation Administration awarded a grant of more than $300,000 to the airport for improvement of existing facilities, said Dave Gunn, airport manager. He said present improvements include resurfacing and installation of lights on runway 18-36, construction of five new hangars and new navigational aids.

"Plans for construction of the present airport began in 1941 as a Corps of Engineers project. The airport was built on filled and reclaimed marshes along the east shore of Utah Lake. Expenditures totaled $823,000 for development of a three-runway system, related lighting and terminal area," Gunn explained.

"The airport was capable of handling any aircraft up to and including B29s," according to Jerry Howell, community development director. He said during 1946 Monarch Airlines began the first government-approved regular air service at the airport.

In the 1950s, Frontier Airlines served the airport, followed by Bonanza Airlines. Skywest Airlines started regular air passenger service to the Provo Airport in April 1973.

"Central Utah Aviation and Interservice Aviation provide fixed-base and transient aircraft with fuel and offer charter, flight instruction and other services to BYU and the general public," said Howell.

No significant change is expected in the land or water life ecological systems due to the current development, he said. Preliminary assessment indicates that the development is not expected to substantially alter the pattern of behavior of any animal species.

Foreign students given help

The International Student Organization is designed to provide activities and informative instructions to help foreign students better adjust to life in the U.S. and at BYU, a spokesman said.

According to Cicely Brummer, public relations officer for the organization, the international students have many activities planned for this school year.

There will be a reception for international students in Utah hosted by Gov. Calvin L. Rampton at Hotel Utah in Salt Lake City Oct. 25 at 6:30 p.m. Tours of the LDS Church offices in Salt Lake City and a chance to meet with some General Authorities will be scheduled at a later date.

Foreign students may also get a taste of some old, American traditions this year, Miss Brummer said. There will be a program called hosting, which will provide foreign students with an opportunity to spend the Thanksgiving and Christmas holidays in Utah homes to see how Americans observe these customs.

The International Student Organization is headed by Ari Nool, with Cicely Brummer a public relations officer.

Woman says Mills right on story of D.C. incident

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Wilbur D. Mills' version of what transpired when park police stopped his car "is exactly what happened," says the former dancer who plunged into the Washington Tidal Basin in the incident.

Annabel Battistella, 38, who has avoided talking to reporters since the bizarre episode Oct. 7, broke her silence in a telephone interview in which she expressed fears for her future and anger at press accounts.

The press, she said, "is trying to destroy a great man and me and my chances of going back to school."

Mills, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee and one of the most powerful men in Congress, released a statement several days after the incident occurred. He has not appeared in Congress since.

A native of Argentina, Mrs. Battistella backed up Mills' statement but refused to elaborate on it.

Mills' account of the events of Oct. 7 said the evening began with a bon voyage party for a cousin of Mrs. Battistella who was returning to her native Argentina.

Mills' wife, Polly, had a broken foot and insisted he take the party out while she stayed home, he said.

"Mrs. Mills went out with us all the time," Mrs. Battistella said. "We were always with other people — never alone."

The party had some refreshments, Mills said. Mrs. Battistella became ill and, as they were being driven home, attempted to leave the car.

"In the ensuing struggle her elbow hit my glasses and broke them, resulting in a number of small cuts around my nose," he said.

Park police who stopped the unlighted, speeding car said Mills emerged with his face bleeding and his breath smelling of alcohol.

Mrs. Battistella refused to discuss these details, but she disagreed with the police account in one respect.

Police said she jumped into the Tidal Basin, a backwater of the Potomac River. A policeman pulled her out of the water.

"I didn't jump into the Tidal Basin. I fell," she said. "I got hysterical because the officer was drowning me. I didn't need his help. I am an expert swimmer."

Mrs. Battistella said she had been a pre-medical student in Argentina and is enrolled to take "general biological sciences" in a Washington-area college.

meeting, the commission gave its support to the Provo City Utilities Department to conduct a study into the city's future power needs.

The study is necessary because of financial problems created by the energy crisis, Grange explained.

Grange said that the city has a contract with the federal government to buy a certain amount of power this year, but because of the energy shortage, consumers are cutting back on usage and this decreases the income of the power department.

"We have to pay the federal government for the power whether we use it or not," Grange said. "Needless to say, it is cutting very deeply into our profits."

The commission also spent time discussing solutions to complaints against the city dump sent by the State Board of Health and the Environmental Protection Agency.

The commission heard ideas from a former dump official and assured those present at the meeting that the city is taking action on the complaints and that some problems have already been eliminated.

Summarizing the "harsh teachings" of the ancient Greeks, Dr. Rosen said, "Political life is a sham, rooted in hypocrisy."

The professor quoted such ancients as Plato, Socrates, Aristotle and the stoics. He concentrated his remarks on Plato's teachings, however.

Philosopher's role

The role of the philosopher, according to Dr. Rosen, is a noble one. "The philosopher is the man who is able to stand on the surface of the earth, in the light of the sun, and see things as they are."

Dr. Rosen has written several books and articles and lectured widely. He received his doctorate in "Social Theory" from the University of Chicago.

Among the books which he has written are "Death in Egypt," "Plato's Symposium," "Nihilism: A Philosophical Essay," and "G.W.F. Hegel: An Introduction to the Science of Wisdom."

Quake monitor site selected

WASHINGTON (AP) — A site in Utah near Bear Lake has been picked as one of two locations in the western United States for earthquake monitoring by satellite, says Sen. Frank E. Moss, D-Utah.

Moss said the second point the monitoring station will be little more than a concrete pad with markers on which a trailer containing instruments will be located a few months of each year.

The senator said the two land stations will be monitored from space by a satellite that can detect small movements in the earth's crust.

Moss said selection of the site was reported in a letter to him from Dr. James C. Fletcher, National Aeronautics and Space Administration head.

His letter said scientists have developed a new theory for earthquake prediction that suggests earthquakes can be predicted by measuring conductivity of the earth's surface, the elasticity of the ground and an uplifting of the ground.

Reagan eyes third party

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Gov. Ronald Reagan says if the Republican party fails to carry out the mandate of the 1972 election of former President Nixon, a "new majority" movement may develop to sponsor a third party candidate for the presidency in 1976.

Y associate professor heads journalism group

Dr. Merwin G. Fairbanks, associate professor of communications at BYU, was elected president of the Utah Journalism Education Association Friday.

The election took place in the Salt Palace in Salt Lake City. Fairbanks succeeded Mrs. Roselyn Kirk of Cottonwood High School.

Executive board members are: the immediate past president, Mrs. Kirk; first vice president, Tracy Wilson of Tooele High School; second vice president, Susan Hovey, and secretary-treasurer, Roy Gibson of the University of Utah Department of Journalism.

According to Dr. Fairbanks, the Utah Journalism Education Association is made up of educators from the state's high schools, junior high schools, junior colleges and universities.

Dr. Fairbanks, who received his Ph.D. from Southern Illinois University, had joined the BYU faculty in 1962. He has also been a reporter for the UJEA, a bimonthly publication for journalism educators.

Dr. Fairbanks, the father of four boys, served as business educator for the Deseret News for 17 years and held a position as the Church News Editor.

One of the organization's goals, according to Dr. Fairbanks, is "to unify the education program among the teachers and to pass along new ideas."

Another goal of the organization is to push "the public address system for daily newscast" in high schools and junior high schools. A for a class in journalism "will be young people more the electronic media Fairbanks.

Newest technology can increase rainfall

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Methods of inducing the clouds to pour forth moisture have advanced considerably when sly rainmakers rumbled their wagons across the federal scientists now say there's hope for artificial drought-parched farmland.

Government researchers say they now have the technique to increase rainfall up to 10 percent in such suffering areas as the Colorado River Basin and the Midwest, the Deseret News, Salt Lake City's afternoon newspaper, said in a copyrighted article from Washington Wednesday.

The newspaper reported that "cloud-seeding" technique, become so efficient that the Bureau of Reclamation now to be able to produce an additional acre-foot of usable water for the Colorado River for a dollar and a half.

"If the techniques developed in the West over the years had been used in time, rainfall might have been by drought-stricken fields in Kansas, Iowa and Nebraska, lack of moisture severely damaged corn, wheat and crops this year," the paper said in a story by Washington correspondent Gordon Eliot White.

If the agency is calculating correctly, enough water has been added to the Colorado River for $2.25 million requirements under a 1942 water treaty with Mexico, compares to the $250 million authorized by Congress for construction of desalinization projects through Colorado.

The newspaper said emergency cloud-seeding was years ago during droughts in Texas, Oklahoma and Arizona, but the tests have not been repeated except small projects.

Ford crusades for Republicans

SIOUX FALLS, S.D. (AP) — President Ford, mounting a political rescue mission for embattled Republican candidates in the Midwest, warned Wednesday that sweeping Democratic victories in next month's election would produce a legislative dictatorship.

Seeking support for his economic programs, the President declared that Republican candidates are needed in Congress as inflation fighters that would help curb big government and deficit spending.

Opening a four-state campaign swing at a breakfast in Kansas City, Ford called on Republicans to mount a massive effort in the closing days of the election campaign and warned that a Democratic landslide would give the opposition party a veto-proof Congress able to pass measures he rejects.

"If you have a veto-proof Congress, in effect you have one branch of the government dictating to another," Ford said.

"Americans don't like dictatorships," he added.

He then set off for South Dakota, Nebraska and Indiana on his heaviest schedule of politics so far this year, praising incumbent Republican congressmen facing stiff challenges and seeking to boost underdog Republican candidates for senator and governor.

In Missouri, South Dakota and Indiana, Republican challengers are trailing Democratic Sens. Thomas F. Eagleton, George McGovern and Birch Bayh, who is opposed by Richard G. Lugar, mayor of Indianapolis.

In South Dakota, GOP hopeful John Olson is believed far behind Gov. Richard Kneip, and Republican candidate Richard Marvel is also thought to be trailing Democratic Gov. J. James Exon of Nebraska.

Ford threw away most of a prepared speech, including a portion praising Missouri Republican Senate candidate Thomas Curtis for his warnings while a House member that budget bashing by Democrats would produce "inflation that would curl our hair."

He criticized congressional efforts to cut off aid to Turkey, blocked Tuesday in the House, as an action that would have done more than any in recent times to undercut this nation's 30-year-old bipartisan approach to foreign policy.

Eagleton, whom Ford didn't mention, was a leader of the anti-Turkey move.

The only Republican congressman from Missouri, Rep. Gene Taylor, wasn't at the breakfast. Aides said he was out campaigning in his southwestern Missouri District.

Ford flew to Sioux Falls mainly to campaign for Leo K. Thornness, a former Vietnam prisoner of war trying to unseat Sen. George McGovern, the 1972 Democratic presidential candidate.

"I can count on him to keep an eye on the way your money will be spent in Washington — to be a full-time fighter against inflation on a year-in and year-out basis instead of once every six years — at election time," Ford said in remarks prepared for a GOP rally.

Ford told his Sioux Falls audience that he was on the campaign trail for two reasons — "First, the American people have a right to see their President out defending what he believes in," and second, "to help our candidates."

Brezhnev plans visit to Egypt

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — Ismail Fahmy, the straight-talking foreign minister who engineered Egypt's friendship with the United States at the expense of its ties with Russia, has now convinced Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev to visit Cairo.

The Soviet Union announced Tuesday that Brezhnev will make his first visit to Cairo in January for meetings with President Anwar Sadat. Brezhnev agreed to the summit after long talks with Fahmy and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko.

The invitation indicated that Sadat is apparently becoming unhappy with the scarcity of concrete results from his year-old opening to the United States.

Fahmy was accompanied to Moscow by chief of staff Lt. Gen. Abdel Ghany and War Production Minister Ahmed Kamal. Their presence indicated Sadat's hope to restore the flow of Soviet arms, including modern missiles and planes that have been supplied to Syria and other Arab states.

A popular figure both in Washington and in Moscow, Fahmy made Egypt's new search for a balance between the superpowers clear when he met with Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger on Sunday and the next morning flew off for Moscow.

Representatives of U.S. Senate candidates Wayne Owens and Jake Garn will square off today to debate their candidates' respective viewpoints.

The debate at the J. Reuben Clark Law School will match Dale Whitman, BYU law professor, with Hank Welch, research director for the Garn campaign.

Topics for the debate will be the candidates' economic policies and will probably include campaign tactics, according to Welch.

The debate, which is open to students, will be held in the Great Hall of the law school, at the corner of 300 North and 900 East, at 10 a.m.

Whitman, a graduate of BYU and Duke University Law School, has taught at the University of North Carolina and the University of California at Los Angeles. Before coming to BYU in 1973, he worked for the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Welch, a recent graduate of the University of Utah in economics, has worked since March 1974 as research director for the Garn campaign.

College recruiters weren't beating a path to Shoate's door when he completed his high school football career at Spiro, Okla.

Even Larry Lacewell, Oklahoma's defensive coach, says it was more of a favor to Spiro Coach L.D. Johnson than anything else that he accepted films of Shoate.

He put the films in his car trunk and rode around with them for a couple a weeks on the trail of other prospects.

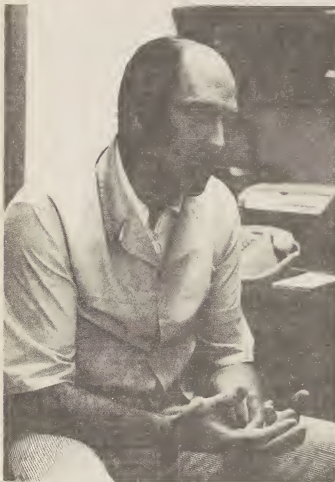

Finally, he looked at them. He liked what he saw and showed them to Chuck Fairbanks, the head coach at the time, who told Lacewell to "go get him."

"I had an All-American linebacker riding around in my trunk for two weeks and didn't know it," recalls Lacewell.

It didn't take long for Shoate to win the label "super." He was named Associated Press National College Lineman of the Week as a sophomore after making 22 tackles against Iowa State.

Merchants solicit aid

Dr. Ed Pinegar, president of the National Cougar Club, discusses this year's athletic fund drive.

Merchants in downtown Provo are displaying blue and white placards announcing their membership in BYU's Cougar Club to aid in soliciting funds for the athletic recruitment program at BYU.

As stated in the constitution of the Cougar Club, the purpose of the club is to "foster the image of BYU nationally by 1) promoting athletic, cultural, and academic programs, 2) providing a meaningful association and leadership experiences for its members, and 3) assisting the coaching staff in the recruitment of the nation's top athletes."

"The fund-raising efforts have been going on for many years," said Dr. Ed Pinegar, president of national Cougar Club.

"Each year we try to use new methods of solicitation to enable proselyting and recruitment among the top athletes across the country. Sports is a great means for accomplishing missionary work and we want to use it to its fullest advantage."

Originally, money was solicited for a travel fund established for coaches to meet and scout potential athletes for BYU, Pinegar said.

The funds acquired here since been divided into three categories: travel funds, scholarship funds, and monies designated for specific sports, he explained.

Students may participate in obtaining donations for the club by attending fund-raising events such as the Frosh-Varsity basketball game in November and by utilizing the "Cougar Coupon Book."

"In the national chapter, we're trying to get the local business people of Provo involved," Pinegar said. "For example, for every member recruited by the club, we'll gain $100 for the club to be used in one of the various areas."

Bernie Fryer jumps to ABA

The Spirits of St. Louis of the American Basketball Association last week signed free agent guard Bernie Fryer, a former BYU basketball star. Fryer averaged seven points a game last year as a rookie with the Portland Trail Blazers of the National Basketball Association. He starred for the Cougars from 1970 through 1972 and averaged a 17-point scoring average.

Show to feature boxing greats

On April 16, 1952, boxing greats Rocky Graziano and Sugar Ray Robinson met for the first time. The fight was for the middleweight championship title. Three minutes later, Sugar Ray Robinson was the victor.

The exciting bout is relived through film clips and an interview with the two boxers retrospective, "The Way It Was," Friday at 7:30 p.m. on KBYU-TV. Robinson was considered an artist—quick, agile, decisive. Graziano was a brawler and plodder looking for the "Sunday" punch. Robinson is known as the greatest pound for pound, of all time. The day of the fight, Chicago Stadium was sold out. Odds were three to one in favor of Robinson. But Rocky was the favorite of the crowd. Robinson controlled the ring for most of the fight. He was too smooth to be Rocky's lunging style. Looking back, sports editors and announcers say Rocky had a chance. Don Dunphy, the announcer who called the blow-by-blow action, will be review his commentary on that exciting day. Curt Gowdy will host the program.

As part of a display, advances in solid state, computer techniques and circuit systems, Dr. Ferril Losee, chairman of the department, will show up his own work.

Martha to get $1,000 a week

NEW YORK (AP) — Martha Mitchell Wednesday was granted temporary alimony of $1,000 a week, one-third the sum she had demanded from her husband, former U.S. Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell.

In making the award, State Supreme Court Justice Manuel Gomez noted that Mitchell grosses $5,281 per week and that his fixed weekly expenses amount to $2,744.40, leaving — prior to taxes — the sum of $2,536.60.

Mitchell's financial obligations do not include carrying charges for the Fifth Avenue cooperative apartment where Mrs. Mitchell now lives. She is to pay those charges out of her alimony.

The alimony decision is a preliminary to Mrs. Mitchell's suit for separation. She has charged abandonment.

Rockefeller criticizes congressional delays

NEW YORK (AP) — Nelson A. Rockefeller expressed indignation Wednesday at the delay of Congress in pursuing hearings into his now-controversial nomination as vice president.

Rockefeller told newsmen the Constitution calls for his appearance before congressional committees, but since his nomination by President Ford two months ago he has spent only 2 1/2 days before a Senate committee but the last two weeks in the nation's headlines.

"I'm getting a little indignant," he said.

The former New York governor fended off questions about his headline-making gifts to political associates and a 1970 campaign book, saying he wants to put it all before Congress, rather than piecemeal in the press.

Rockefeller said he had hoped to be able to appear before the Senate Rules Committee Wednesday. He said he talked by telephone Tuesday night to staff members of the committee and said "they were working on it."

Chairman Howard Cannon, D-Nev. of the Senate Rules Committee, said he will have a statement later in the day on Rockefeller's request for more hearings quickly by that committee. The House Judiciary Committee is also involved in the hearings on his nomination.

The Senate committee held hearings in September but the House panel has not held any hearings or set any date for starting them.

Senate Republican leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania suggested today that the nearness of the Nov. 5 elections accounted for Arthur J. Goldberg being "suddenly aroused" by a four-year-old book secretly financed with Rockefeller money.

The critical campaign biography of the former Supreme Court justice was published in 1970 when Goldberg was Rockefeller's Democratic opponent for governor of New York.

Scott's remarks about Goldberg were made after Democratic leader Mike Mansfield of Montana disclosed Goldberg had telephoned him last Thursday night and said he wanted to testify before the Senate committee on Rockefeller's nomination.

Mansfield said he wrote Cannon the next day and requested that Goldberg be allowed to testify.

Scott said he had no objection to Goldberg being a witness, adding, "It would give him another day in the sun."

The GOP leader told the Senate that if Goldberg had been so upset by the book, he could have made an issue of it in his 1970 campaign and protected himself with court action.

Sen. Robert P. Griffin of Michigan, assistant Republican leader, said "Congress is on trial."

The people, Griffin said, expect Congress to carefully scrutinize the qualifications of a vice presidential nominee, but "not to play politics with a matter as serious as this."

Twins lose three-day fight for life

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A three-day effort to save Siamese twins born to an East Los Angeles couple has ended with the girls' death.

A hospital spokesman said death, which came late Tuesday, was attributed to heart failure, a common cause of mortality among Siamese twins. The pair had trouble breathing almost from birth Sunday. Doctors said lung development was faulty.

The babies, born to Mr. and Mrs. Severino Morales, were delivered by Caesarian section after a full-term pregnancy. Joined at the lower two-thirds of the chest and the upper one-third of the abdomen, they weighed 12 pounds, 12 1/2 ounces together.

Nine hours after birth, doctors operated to close an abdominal opening.

Arabs, Israel continue talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger says "we found a general receptivity to a step-by-step approach" to negotiations between Israel and the Arabs during his week-long Middle East trip.

Kissinger, who returned home Tuesday night, said the nations he visited showed "a great willingness for the United States to play a role" in the process.

He repeated his intention to return to the Middle East early next month. "I hope we can continue the process toward peace begun 11 months ago," he added.

Kissinger has made six mediating trips to the Middle East since the October war, arranged Israeli withdrawals on two fronts and now is trying to encourage other steps toward an easing of tension in the area.

seven females from 21 states and Mexico.

He also reported that 126 students have served LDS missions and 75 per cent of those mastered a second language.

"Six of our students hold master's degrees," Hansen said. "One student has a doctorate in electronics."

Hansen said that 26 law students are veterans of the armed services.

"Our students range in age from 21 to 40, the average age being 24½-years-old," Hansen said. "The most common age is 25."

Program now available for on, off-campus use

A new program to raise student awareness levels was started last June by the Academics Office and is now in full swing on the BYU campus.

Academic Resources, the branch of Academics Vice Pres. James Johnson, is now being offered to the many on-campus and off-campus clubs as well as university departments and campus MIA branches.

Academic Resources has been designed to "spark the interest and raise the awareness of students" in a variety of subjects, Johnson said.

Johnson's program will serve as a resource for the MIA's to call upon. Already two branch MIA's have taken the opportunity to use the new program.

According to Terry Newman of the Academics Office, the 6th Branch MIA staged a "mini-Shakespeare festival," while the 101st branch MIA put on the tale of "Little Red Riding Hood."

Resources for the program are being drawn from the various departments of the university.

"We would like to involve every department," he said. "That would be ideal."

Newman explained the program is being handled by students with the voluntary help of instructors who are interested in assisting. The program calls for students from each department to work with the Academics Office. Each student will then be responsible to interest a faculty member from that department.

From there a capsule subject will be prepared and made available to the branch MIA's. According to Newman, the branch MIA's will in turn ask the Academics Office for a presentation from a department.

The program has the thrusts, Newman said, students can have experience, exposure, with which they may already be familiar. Students have a experience with a subjects.

Troops to remain in riot-torn Boston

BOSTON (AP) — The National Guard will remain on alert in the Boston area despite criticism by Mayor Kevin H. White that it comprises "an inept, incompetent, ill-equipped, undisciplined or undertrained militia."

Gen. Vahan Vartanian, adjutant general of the Massachusetts National Guard, said his troops would remain in the city as long as they are needed. He said the men are well-trained and well-equipped.

"I take my order from the governor," he said. "I am the commander-in-chief," Vartanian said.

Gov. Francis W. Sargent ordered the guard mobilized Tuesday following a disturbance at Hyde Park High School in which eight white students were hospitalized, one with a severe stab wound. Sargent also asked Ford to send in federal troops, but the request was denied.

In a statement, the deployment of the troops was necessary, White said. "We cannot permit a city to become another Detroit, where it took of civilian deaths at the hands of the police and Guardsmen to bring federal troops."

"We cannot permit a block section of this city to become another South, where it took of the police and Guardsmen to bring federal troops."

Meanwhile, the mayor said Army paratroopers Bragg, N.C., have been on increased alert in the city since the school crisis.
